The Truth Behind Being Grateful.....

Usually we offer thanksgiving to G-d for a salvation from a misfortune or calamity. But if we truly believe that everything that occurs in this world is the result of Divine Providence, then we should be thanking the Almighty for everything.

Consider an orthopedic surgeon who notices someone walking in a manner that is symptomatic of a rare, crippling bone disease. The condition can only be cured if the bones are broken and reset before the disease progresses to the point of no return. Realizing that the patient's gait reveals little time left before his condition is irreversible, the surgeon takes an iron pole and swiftly breaks both of his legs - and then proceeds to set them and nurture the patient back to health. The surgeon deserves thanks both for breaking and setting the bones.

Full, uninhibited thanksgiving requires one to fully understand and appreciate that everything that happens comes from G-d Himself, and we must be grateful for ALL of it. The challenges and the good times. Everything plays a role in building our character if we take the time to pay attention and internalize all the events in our lives.

One of the greatest gifts we can give our children is to teach them the art of appreciation.

BETTER TOGETHER PROGRAM/SEVENTH AND EIGHTH CHUMASH

Seventh and Eighth graders had the privilege of visiting with Mr. Charlie Waldrop and Mr. Armando Ricci of Buckingham South.

Mr. Waldrop allowed the students to join him for breakfast as he shared with them a fascinating history lesson and explained the importance of getting a good education. Mr. Ricci, a renowned and well-traveled geologist, showed the seventh and eighth graders his extensive rock and gem collection, and told us all about his travels around the world as a geologist!

Thank you, Mr. Waldrop and Mr. Ricci!

Caught in the Act

Rivki Schochet Found a ring on the play ground during recess. She was going to give it to the office for the lost and found. Then she decided to find the owner herself. She went all around the playground and asked everybody if they lost the ring. She was able to return it to the owner.
